

UGG NEWS

Welcome to the September Issue of UGG news!

Gen Con, the biggest game convention in the Midwest, came and went back in August. With it came many facts and rumors about upcoming games!

Fantasy Flight announced a 2 player card game version of the Game of Thrones LCG. It is supposed to be lighter on the rules and great for beginners.

The Iron Kingdoms RPG core book release has been moved up to September 18th! Privateer Press received the books early and is ready to get them out asap!

By now, you have heard of the upcoming X-Wing miniatures game from Fantasy Flight that plays similar to Wings of War/Glory. Well, the second wave of add on ships was announced at Gen Con as Millennium Falcon, Slave-1, A-Wing, and the TIE Interceptor, all due out before Christmas!

Shadows Over Camelot is coming out as a card game! The Card Game follows in the footsteps of the original, as players work together to defend Camelot against rumors swirling about the kingdom. Due out late October in the U.S.

For Magic the Gathering, the new set titled Return to Ravnica is a hot topic lately. We are hosting three pre-release events the last week of September. Cards go on sale Friday, October 5th. The pre-release events feature your choice of 5 different guilds. You choose one to play in the event. Each guild pack contains 5 booster packs of the new set, plus one pack that features cards of the chosen guild.

If you are thinking of buying any cards when they go on sale, I would pre-order soon. This set may sell out fast.

Our Star Wars RPG beta books will arrive on 9.5.12!!

Dominion: Dark Ages

by Rio Grande Games

Times have been hard. To save money, you've moved out of your old castle, and into a luxurious ravine. In your free time you've taken up begging. Begging is brilliant conceptually, but tricky in practice, since no-one has any money. That's just how life is sometimes. The Dark Ages expansion introduces 500 cards to Dominion, including 35 new Kingdom cards, plus new troublesome cards you pass onto other players (ruins), new cards to replace starting Estates (shelters), and cards you can only get via other cards.

This is an expansion to one of the core copies of Dominion. It was released late August and is currently in stock!

Hordes: Two Player Battlegroup Box

by Privateer Press

In a world ravaged by warfare, fury is your greatest weapon! From the frozen northern wastes the Legion of Everblight descends upon Immoren, defiling the land with taint and corruption. Dependent upon nature but fueled by its raw and ancient power, the druids of the Circle of Orboros clash with the dragon Everblight's forces to halt the spread of the dragon's blight. The Hordes Two-Player Battlegroup Box contains everything you need for a two-player game complete with Hordes: Primal Mk II rules in a travel-sized booklet, an introductory guide, dice, ruler, and 20 plastic Hordes models with corresponding stat cards! In Sept.

Star Trek: Fleet Captains-Romulan expansion

Wiz Kids

"Misdirection is the key to survival, never attack what your enemy defends, never behave as our enemy expects, and never reveal your true strength. If knowledge is power, then to be unknown is to be unconquerable."

Romulan ships with 10 new sub-decks, and introduces a new Mission type (Espionage) and the ability to assign Romulan Saboteurs to your opponent's ships.

The Romulan Empire expands its influence into Star Trek: Fleet Captains! This expansion set contains 12 new Scheduled to ship in October 2012!

Star Wars RPG: Beta (In store soon!) by Fantasy Flight Games

Fantasy Flight Games announced its plans for the Star Wars Roleplaying Game at Gen Con. Here is a quick interview with Fantasy Flight Vice President of Marketing and Communication Steve Horvath about the company's plans for the line.

Tell us about the Star Wars RPG.

The first one is called Star Wars: Edge of the Empire. We're basically taking the concept of Star Wars, which is a huge, immersive universe, and breaking it up into slices. So the first book, Edge of the Empire, will focus on the scum and villainy, the scoundrels, the smugglers, the pirates, the bounty hunters, colonists, people on the outer fringe and focus on that experience, and that will come out in early 2013. There will also be expansions, which I can't talk about right now.

Do you know price and format?

There's a beta book on sale today, which is a little over 200 pages at $29.95. The full version, on sale early next year, will include all the background material not in the beta version, a lot more artwork, and a brand new adventure.

A year after that we'll release Age of Rebellion, which focuses on the classic era of rebellion, with Princess Leia vs. the Empire, Darth Vader, and all that. It will focus on the experience of being a rebel during that time and trying to overthrow the Empire. It will also have its own full line of expansions.

A year after that will be a book called Force and Destiny that will focus on Force users that are on the run, living in hiding during the Classic Era trilogy.

Do these games all take place contemporaneously?

All three of these books will take place during the Classic Era trilogy. They can be played as stand-alone experiences, but you could also take all three of those core books and their supplements and weave them together seamlessly into a greater campaign.

Are there any similarities to the game mechanics from your existing roleplaying games?

We took the most popular feature from Warhammer Fantasy Role Play, the narrative dice system that we invented with the custom dice, and everything we've learned from it, and took it a step further and innovated, and did some more development work and so this would be the next iteration of the narrative dice system. There will be custom dice available.

The beta edition comes with full color sticker sheet so you can customize dice to play with it now. And of course there will be custom dice available when the full book is available.

We also announced the Star Wars Dice App. The Android version is available now, and the iOS version will be available any time now.

So that's instead of dice?

It's a dice roller app. It has the custom dice from the roleplaying game and it also has the custom dice from the X-Wing Miniature Game, and it has a set of standard polyhedral dice so you could use that for any RPG.

On September 5th:

UGG will have BETA copies for sale!
